Ross Wins Steamtown by Wide Margin

By Marty Myers, Scranton Times-Tribune

SCRANTON — From the time 33-year-old Nick Ross hit the bottom of the driveway, it looked like another training run.

Ross wasted little time moving to the front of the pack as the field of 880 departed Forest City Regional High School on Sunday morning for the 25th running of the Steamtown Marathon.

Not long after that, Ross, a Minneapolis resident, was a solitary figure in the 26.2-mile trek to Courthouse Square, cruising to victory in the silver anniversary edition of the race in 2 hours, 25 minutes, 33 seconds.

That was nearly 10 minutes ahead of runner-up Nathan Fathman of New York City, who saw the writing on the wall well before the race's first steps.

"I never thought it was going to be a problem," Fathman said of Ross. "We were talking beforehand and I knew his resumé. I knew he was fast. He took off and I was cheering for him."

"Never worried about it, never stressed about it. I was just happy to see him go and see him keep going."

By the time the race was 3 miles old, Fathman, third-place finisher AJ Kelly of Altoona, and the rest of the pack were in fruitless pursuit, already nearly 300 yards back.

"I felt fairly confident," Ross said. "Early, I felt pretty sure by Mile 5 that I was likely going to win. But I think I mentioned before the race, winning is cool. It's fun. I've never won a marathon before. But I'm more motivated by finding how hard I can push myself and just not blowing up at the end and I think I achieved both of those."

"Everything that I read and everything that I heard said take it easy in the first 10 miles, take it easy on the downhills," Ross said. "I stopped looking at my watch, but I would imagine that my first eight miles are probably my slowest and I almost actually kind of regret that a little bit because when I got to the flats, long flat straights are where I do my best and I had a hard time getting out of the pace that I'd settled into."

"But who knows? If I would have gone faster on the downhills, maybe that would have hurt later. It felt pretty consistent."

It's about as consistent as a marathoner can be. He covered the first 13.1 miles in 1:11:2, the second leg in 1:12:11, a difference of about 4 seconds per mile, most of that run into a stiff headwind.

"I was able to kind of just go to my happy place and cruise, but the wind, the wind was tough," Ross said. "Although I will say what was really cool about this race is this is definitely the smallest marathon that I've done. Like Chicago, where it's just walls of people the whole time. Here it was a lot smaller, but everybody treated me like I was their son or their best friend or something. They acted like they knew me and they're super kind and I was really grateful for that. It was kind of a fun experience."

"It gets difficult in the later miles. It's good to have some company that helps you mentally, even if you're still suffering physically. But yeah, it was great having the crowds out there that kind of took my mind off things and the encouragement was great. So it kept me sane."

Even though the 25-year-old Fathman knew Ross was the class of the field, the triathlon veteran saw it as another stepping stone on his journey that he hopes will lead to more significant marathon goals.

"This is just like a progress report," Fathman said. "Boston next year, hoping to run that pretty well and then a late season marathon either next fall or early 2024 to try to qualify for the Olympic trials. So this is just a step in that direction."

"It's about 18 minutes off, but I'm only a year into marathon training. So I have plenty of room to grow."

Salese Pulls Away to Capture Steamtown Crown

By Marty Myers, Scranton Times-Tribune

SCRANTON — She didn't know if the timing was right, but Alyssa Salese knew she had to make a move.

On the heels of two-time women's defending Steamtown Marathon champ Heidi Peoples, the 30-year-old Huntington, New York resident went for broke.

Turns out, her judgment was perfect.

Salese passed Peoples between the 4- and 5-mile mark and pulled away for a nearly 7-minute victory, covering Sunday's 26.2-mile race from Forest City to Courthouse Square in 2 hours, 47 minutes, 25 seconds.

Peoples, a six-time Steamtown champion, was second in 2:54:18, followed by Scranton's Clare Schoen in only her second marathon, crossing the finish in 2:55:29.

"I didn't want to pass (Peoples), but then I had to stick with my pacing," Salese said. "And I was expecting her to actually come up and beat me in the last 10K. But I just was like, 'All right, I have to settle in and if she comes for me she'll come.' Today she didn't but she's really talented. This wasn't her fastest. She's got way faster."

"It was earlier than I wanted to pass her. Maybe I was in over my head. I wasn't really so doubtful this whole time because I really didn't see my pace, however for the time that I finished, I guess I was on pace."

Salese trained to run 2:42, the same time Peoples ran in last year's Philadelphia Marathon, but after discussing it with her coach, settled on a slightly slower pace.

The early downhill also took a toll on her.

"It's a hard race," Salese said. "I definitely was feeling it in my quads at the halfway mark, which they said to expect. Pacing, I just tried to keep it pretty even throughout."

"I actually got what I was looking for out of the start. Obviously, it's a huge drop and I just had to be conscious of that with my pacing. There were times where I was maybe going a little too fast but then I just dialed it back."

For more than 12 miles, Salese put distance between her and the field. By Mile 18, Peoples began to close the distance, but her personal best in last weekend's Wineglass half marathon eventually took its toll on the 42-year-old South Abington Twp. resident.

"My goal there was to be the top master and I ended up running my PR (personal record), which was 1:16:53. And I felt great," Peoples said of Wineglass. "Coming in today I had a lot of confidence. You know, the rule is, you had double that time, add 10 minutes, and that's where your projected time should be. So I was hoping for 2:45 today, something like that. But that's not usually the timeframe that you run a half marathon a week before a marathon.

"I felt that half got me set to do something, that I could be competitive with this race. And then my goal here initially was to break the masters record of 2:52."

Both of those goals went out the window over the final eight miles.

"I don't think I've ever had such a hard break after Mile 18," Peoples said. "That wall was devastating today. But I guess you have that, especially as you get older, I need more time to recover and I don't think I gave myself that time."

"At the end of the day it's all my own fault. I can't put it any other way. It's not what I wanted and you have these types of races. That's the most learning experience that you get. You kind of dig deeper the next time and you refocus and you reset yourself. So, I've learned to accept my failures and I've wanted to move on."

"And I want to be a role model for my children. You don't always get what you want. You don't always set a goal and reach that goal, but you learn from your mistakes and you move on."

Peoples wasn't the only runner who faced a struggle in the race's latter stages.

"I'm going to have to say that the last 10K really does get you," Salese said. "It felt like it was never-ending. Beautiful race, that's for sure. It's fast, but it's not an easy course. I really trained to do a 2:42 but just wasn't in the science for me today."

"I have to say, first time running this, I definitely feel like maybe I'll be better next time. My quads have never felt like this in my life. I don't think I can sit down."

Neither the low temperature — 34 degrees when the starter's gun fired at 7:57 a.m. — or the steady breeze that picked up near the halfway point did much to slow Salese.

"Luckily, there was usually a guy in front of me to hide behind from time to time, but it actually felt good," Salese said. "For the start being so cold, it definitely warmed up the first 10K, and then the wind kind of felt pretty nice. I'll take this over humid, 70 degrees any day."

The Steamtown Marathon 2022 Testimonials

I ran this marathon this past weekend. It was my 11th marathon. I was so impressed by the organization of this race! From the shuttles to the start, the ability to stay warm in the high school gymnasium before the start, the plethora of available port-a-potties, the amazing amount of medical support all along the course, the pop-up aid stations created by the spectators, the beautiful foliage, & everything was amazing. It is a bit of a hilly course but nothing worse than the Twin Cities marathon. Five stars all around!

E.C. from Illinois

Steamtown was our first marathon and it lived up to its reputation. Very well organized with every detail covered. From the time we stepped off the bus until the finish line the volunteers were cheering for us. Food tent was great with plenty of choices for everyone. They truly care about their runners. We look forward to returning for next year.

Sean C., New Hampshire

This was my 6th marathon, but first time running Steamtown, and I achieved a 10 min PR! I can't believe that I am a NEPA native and always traveled for my marathons. This might become an annual race for me. The field size was small compared to other big city races, but that means you get personal attention and help whenever needed (pre, during, post-race). Speaking of post-race, that spread!

A.B. from Kingston, PA

10/10 recommend the Steamtown marathon. This was my first marathon and it was a great experience. The course was mostly downhill with some hills at the end but the spectators were awesome and provided so much encouragement at the end. The course was so beautiful too as it's fall and the trees were turning colors! They blocked off traffic very well. Water, Gatorade, and snacks were provided frequently especially for the second half of the race, and people from the town would also put out water and food for runners. Highly recommend this marathon - a great and beautiful course with great spectators!

H.F. Lancaster, PA

I cannot say enough good things about this race. A point-to-point race has to be a logistical nightmare, but the organizers of this event did not miss a thing. Every detail was thought out and perfectly executed. The spectators were by far the most enthusiastic/encouraging group I've ever experienced. The course included a wide variety of terrain and scenery which really broke up the monotony of pounding pavement for 26.2 miles. This was only my 4th marathon but the other three fail in comparison. This race is at the very top of my list and I don't expect it to be dethroned any time soon.

B.Y. Millersburg, PA

This is hands down, the best marathon. The race director is so funny, he sends emails out that I actually want to read. The course is beautiful. The spectators give so many treats out. Krispy Kreme, Dunkin Donuts, candies, fruits, cookies, and so much more. The food that was provided at the finish line was like no other. They had hot foods, and tons and tons of snacks. I have never seen so much food. I didn't need to go eat after my race. They had Krispy Creme donuts too. I couldn't eat donuts while running but at the finish line, I ate all to donuts!! Got a massage too. My first one. There is usually such a long line for it so I never wait but not this marathon. They had around 4-6 people available. Very well organized. Love, love, love it!

The Steamtown Marathon 2022 Testimonials

The quality of the Steamtown Marathon exceeded my high expectations based on my running friends' input.

From the humorous emails from the assistant race director leading up to the event to even assuring concerned runners that a competitor that fell suddenly during the race was okay. In addition, the small expo was very well organized, including a seminar on how to most effectively run the course. The course itself was awesome, especially with the beautiful Lackawanna River trail section. The volunteers manning the water stations were very nice. Later on the course, these stations also had some food and locals occasionally offered some bottles of water, or soda. Finally, the finish area had a large food tent and right nearby massage therapist were available for sore runners.

P.I., PA

The cream de la cream of the 20 marathons I've run now!!! Every possible detail was perfectly executed!!! I'm definitely coming back next year and crossing the finish line much faster!!!

Paul I.

Thank you to everyone who made this possible. My headphones ending up dying 10 seconds into the race sadly, but the volunteers and people within the community cheering me on kept me motivated. I ended up hitting a 2 minute PR! As for Mr. Cummings, I will miss your humorous emails. Thank you for your charisma. It made me even more excited to run.

Thank you again to everyone who volunteered and supported us runners. I have only done three marathons but this one is the best. I could feel the love, support, and genuine excitement all 26.2 miles. I am forever grateful and will have the best memories of this race thanks to all of you.

Ali M.

I was blown away by how well organized this event was. So much positive energy! Looking forward to next year already.

Steve E.

Thank you for hosting such an amazing marathon! It was a fabulous first marathon experience.

Jennye D. Y.

Thank you, and army of volunteers for a very well run post Covid race!! Hoping to see this every year!!!

Paul S.

Thanks for an awesome day! You all were amazing. I especially enjoyed the pre race emails. Got such a great giggle out of most of them. I am originally from NEPA and decided to come back from Richmond VA to run this race- so worth it! Well done!

Liz L. G.

Thank you to everyone who made this first time MARATHON runners experience such an amazing time. All of my training was spent as alone time where I blocked out the world and just focused on my mind and body. I was so nervous going into this because I thought the crowd support would be distracting. Boy was I wrong! The sponsors, volunteers and crowd support gave me the energy to run through each of those 26 miles. Thank you for your dedication and love. You made this dumb middle aged soccer mom feel like a celebrity for a day. I don't have other marathons to compare this to but I can't imagine a better run event!!!
